Congratulations to Gregory Cook, Quincyan of the week! Greg is a 1992 graduate of Quincy Senior High School, a 1997 graduate of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign with a bachelor of science degree in Civil Engineering and a 2002 graduate of Washington University with a Master of Architecture degree.

Greg and his wife Casey live in St. Louis with their two children, Grace, who is six years old, and Oliver who is three. He is employed by the architectural firm HOK.

As Project Designer for HOK's Justice Practice in Saint Louis, he brings more than 10 years of multi-disciplinary design to clients. Upon joining HOK in 2007 he has applied his expertise to a broad spectrum of HOK disciplines utilizing a thorough knowledge of the needs of their corporate, public and institutional users. He has focused on partnering with clients to cultivate and realize their visions and to establish HOK as the preeminent thought leader in the industry.

His recent projects have included: Union County Courthouse, Jonesboro, Illinois, (project designer); Nye County Jail, Pahrump, Nevada, (project designer), Iowa State Penitentiary, Fort Madison, Iowa, (project designer); and University of Missouri St. Louis (UMSL), Benton-Stadler Science Complex Renovation & Addition (project designer).

Greg also is an instructor and guest critic at the Sam Fox School of Design at Washington University. His interests include reading, attending concerts and musical events, cooking and going to St. Louis Cardinal baseball games.

Quincy and QuincyBuzz.com are pleased that Greg Gook calls Quincy his hometown!
